Revenue-management consultancy notes for Damiano

Internal strategy

PriceLabs / RevLabs

04 Sep 2026

Main Conclusion

Do not sell PriceLabs setup. Sell the commercial decision layer: diagnosis, weekly actions, owner communication and margin protection.

Service Shape

One-listing diagnosis, weekly pulse, monthly owner report and premium weekly revenue meeting facilitation.

What To Add

Discount-stack audit, booking-window diagnosis, bookable-nights check, owner-block review and Decision Log.

Sales position

Dynamic pricing is not the strategy. It is the engine. ORL adds the commercial decision layer.

1. What Matters

The four videos point to one commercial lesson: judgement beats tool setup.

Better Data, Not Tools

Everyone can access pricing tools. The advantage is knowing which data matters and what decision it should trigger.

Shifting Market

Soft demand and shorter booking windows need calm diagnosis. Do not panic-discount before checking the demand pattern.

Shoulder Season

Price is the output, not the input. Discounts, restrictions, fees, promos and ops issues can create the real revenue leak.

Weekly Meeting

Revenue meetings are not dashboard reading. They should end with an action list, owner narrative and accountable next steps.

Use this in sales

- Lead with decision quality: ORL tells operators what to change next, not just what the dashboard says.
- Explain market context before year-on-year context. Beating the market can be a win even if last year was stronger.
- Position weekly cadence as a product: recurring diagnosis, recommendations, owner-ready language and blocked-item tracking.
- Make operations part of RM: maintenance holds, owner blocks, reviews and access issues all change revenue reality.

2. ORL Offer Ladder

Keep it sellable and specific.

Entry Offer: One-Listing Revenue Diagnosis

Pricing sanity, booking window, minimum stay, gap nights, discount stack, OTA visibility, listing conversion, review blockers and a 30/60/90-day action plan.

Monthly Offer: Revenue Manager Plus

Weekly pulse, monthly owner-style report, PriceLabs settings review, market comparison, discount/promotions audit, minimum-stay optimisation and channel/listing recommendations.

Premium Offer: Weekly Revenue Meeting Facilitation

Top-down market and portfolio review, bottom-up unit watchlist, operations/marketing/distribution alignment, owner narrative and a decision list with owners.

Do not sell

- Cheap PriceLabs setup.
- Generic dashboard screenshots.
- A report with numbers but no action.
- Guarantees that price changes alone will fix performance.
- A tool-first pitch that makes ORL look replaceable.

3. Weekly Revenue Meeting Template

The meeting should finish with actions, not commentary.

Run Order

- Market health: demand, supply, booking window and competitor movement.
- Portfolio health: ADR, occupancy, RevPAR, revenue and bookable nights.
- Pacing: compare to market first, then last year and budget.
- Watchlist: units behind market, low conversion, operations blockers or owner holds.
- Pricing actions: base price, min price, seasonality, last-minute settings and far-out settings.
- Stay-rule actions: minimum stay, gap nights and check-in/check-out restrictions.
- Promotion actions: OTA promos, long-stay discounts, mobile/early-bird/last-minute offers and sponsored listings.
- Listing actions: photos, title, amenities, review score, description and direct-booking angle.
- Owner communication: what needs to be explained before the owner complains.
- Decision Log: who does what by when.

4. Revenue Leaks To Diagnose

This is the checklist that makes the service practical.

Booking Window

If demand is booking later, weak forward occupancy can be a timing problem, not a price problem.

Discount Stack

Long-stay discounts, OTA promos, mobile rates, sponsored listings and manual cuts can quietly destroy margin.

Bookable Nights

Owner blocks, maintenance holds and check-in restrictions can make revenue targets mathematically impossible.

Listing Conversion

Photos, titles, reviews, amenities and guest perception may be the reason price cuts fail.

Best client-facing phrases

- Most hosts do not have a data problem. They have a decision problem.
- Before we lower price, we check whether the listing is being made expensive, invisible or unprofitable by settings around price.
- If the market is down, the goal is not always to beat last year. The goal is to beat the market and protect margin.
- Every report should answer: what do we change next?

5. ORL Build Additions

What should be added to the operating system and client reports.

Add To Product

- Discount-stack audit in onboarding and monthly review.
- Dubai short-booking-window diagnostic.
- Bookable-nights / owner-block / maintenance-hold section.
- Soft-market owner explanation template.
- Decision Log inside every client report.
- Weekly revenue meeting checklist.
- Website wording: pricing is the output, not the input.

Operator Rule

- PriceLabs data is evidence, not the whole strategy.
- ORL should combine pricing data with PMS truth, OTA visibility, listing quality, reviews, owner constraints and prior decisions.
- Write actions stay approval-gated. Consultancy value comes from diagnosis, explanation and action tracking first.

Sales position

The paid work is not clicking the tool. The paid work is deciding what the operator should do next.
